

DriftWatch User Guide

FieldWatch® has redesigned and made some big improvements to the DriftWatch® Specialty Crop Site Registry. This website redesign includes new features to make DriftWatch easier to use and manage for producers and applicators. This document is intended to guide new and current users through the new website and point out some main features that will be useful.

Below is a screen shot of the homepage. This page essentially guides you to all other pages you might need. From this page you may go to a DriftWatch state, register as an applicator, producer, or beekeeper, and login as an existing user to manage your sites.

The screenshot shows the DriftWatch homepage with several key features highlighted by red circles and blue callout boxes:

- Top Menu Bar: Contains the DriftWatch logo, "About", "DriftWatch Map", "Resources", and "Contact Us". A callout box states: "This menu bar is present on all pages and the logo will direct you back to home page."
- My DriftWatch: A login section with fields for "Username" and "Password", a "Log In" button, and a "Sign Up Free" link. A callout box says: "Sign up or Log In".
- Welcome to the New DriftWatch™: A central section with a welcome message and a photo of a tractor in a field.
- Map My Fields: A section with a description and a "Map Fields" button. A callout box points to it: "Go here to register or to map fields or beehives".
- Map My Apiaries: A section with a description and a "Map Beehives" button.
- Register for Notifications: A section with a description and an "Applicators" button. A callout box points to it: "Sign up as an applicator."
- View Sites in My Area: A section with a list of states (Colorado, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Wisconsin) and a map of the United States. A callout box points to the map: "Click on state from the list or from the map (if visible) to go to the state specific map view."
- Did you know?: A section with a "Register My Site" button. A callout box points to it: "Another link to register as a producer or an applicator or login to an existing account."

At the bottom of the page, there is a "Disclaimer" and "Support" link, and a copyright notice: "Copyright © 2014 FieldWatch, Inc and Purdue Research Foundation".

Signing Up on the New DriftWatch

By clicking on the options above for signing up, you will be directed to the login/signup page seen here.

New Users:

If you are new to DriftWatch, you should create an account by filling out the information listed here and clicking “Sign Up”.

Existing Users:

If you have previously registered as a DriftWatch user (via the old website), your account and login information remains the same as on the old site, and you may login using that email address and password.

The image shows a screenshot of the DriftWatch website's sign-up and login interface. The top navigation bar includes the DriftWatch logo and links for About, DriftWatch Map, Resources, and Contact Us. The main heading is "Sign Up for a DriftWatch Account" with the subtext "Signing up is fast, free, and simple." Below this are input fields for Username, Email Address, Password, and Re-type Password. A red circle highlights the "I am registering as a ..." section, which contains two buttons: "Producer" and "Applicator". A blue "Sign Up" button is located below these options. To the right, there is a "Log In" section with fields for Username and Password, and a "Log In" button. A callout box points to the "Log In" section with the text: "Existing Users: If you have previously registered as a DriftWatch user (via the old website), your account and login information remains the same as on the old site, and you may login using that email address and password." Another callout box points to the "Sign Up" button with the text: "Be sure to indicate if you are registering as a producer or as an applicator." A third callout box points to the error messages on the right with the text: "If any information is inconsistent (i.e. passwords) or not filled out, the website will prompt you to redo the information." The right side of the image shows a preview of the sign-up form with sample data: Username "kerobert", Email Address "kerobert@butler.edu", Password "*****", and Re-type Password "*****". Below the password fields, there are two red error messages: "The two passwords do not match". At the bottom, there is a message: "Please select your DriftWatch role. If you want to add sensitive areas to the registry, select 'Producer'. If you are a registered applicator, select 'Applicator'".

After you create your account, you will see a confirmation box that your account was successfully created. As a security precaution, it also indicates that an email has been sent to you as a means of verifying the email address you have provided. Once done, you may begin mapping and registering your specific crop sites.

As mentioned above, you should receive an email similar to the one below after creating your account. In order to complete your account registration, you must access this email and click the link to complete the security check of your email address. This email won't reach Individuals who put in bogus emails or incorrect ones, so their inability to confirm their email will trigger further investigation.

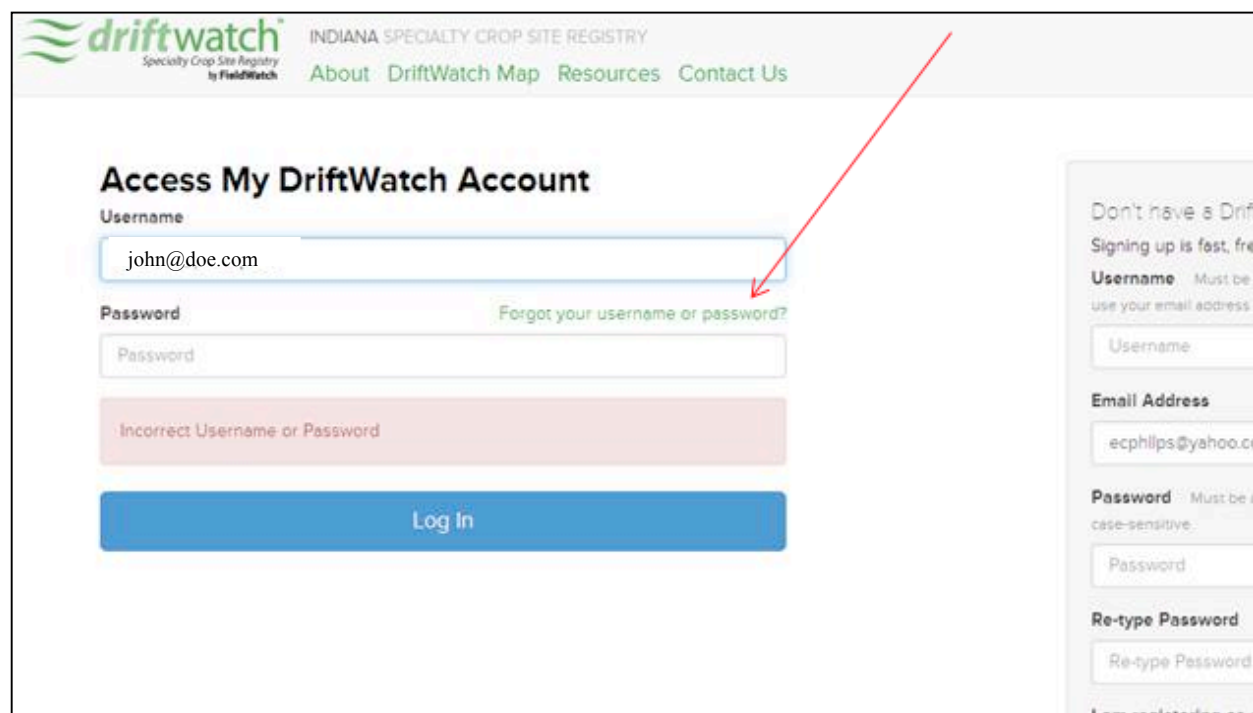

Upon clicking the link to confirm your email address, you will be directed to the page below, indicating that your email address has been confirmed.

The screenshot shows the DriftWatch website header with the logo and navigation links: About, DriftWatch Map, Resources, and Contact Us. On the right, there is a 'My DriftWatch' section with a 'Sign Up Free' link and a 'Log In' button. The main content area displays a confirmation message: 'Thanks John Doe. We have confirmed your email kjohn@doe.com. Go to the DriftWatch Map'. At the bottom, there are links for 'Disclaimer' and 'Support', and a copyright notice: 'Copyright © 2014 FieldWatch, Inc and Purdue Research Foundation'.

Once registered, you can come back to the website at any time and log in using your self-created user name and password. If you forget your username, you can use your email address.

If you forget your user password, click on the "Forgot your username or password?" Follow the instructions to receive an email with the password reset.

The screenshot shows the DriftWatch website header with the logo and navigation links: About, DriftWatch Map, Resources, and Contact Us. The main content area is titled 'Access My DriftWatch Account'. It features a 'Username' field with the email 'john@doe.com' entered, a 'Password' field, and a 'Log In' button. A red arrow points to the 'Forgot your username or password?' link. Below the password field, there is a red error message: 'Incorrect Username or Password'. On the right side, there is a sidebar with a 'Don't have a DriftWatch account?' section, which includes a 'Signing up is fast, free' message and a 'Sign Up' button. Below this, there are fields for 'Username', 'Email Address', 'Password', and 'Re-type Password'.
